

SEERS Spring 2019 Meeting Registration is now open!

Register today through Friday, February 8 and join us March 7-9 at UNCW's Center for Marine Science.

Our Special Session is "Art of Resilience," a session focusing on how coastal ecosystems bounce back after a disturbance. We will kick off our meeting with a special plenary on Thursday evening and we encourage abstract submissions with this theme.

For detailed "How to" meeting registration instructions, student travel awards, and presentation guidelines, please visit the SEERS Next Meeting page. To qualify for Member rates, be sure you are current on your dues BEFORE registering. Renew your membership using our new portal website.

Special SEERS lodging rates are being finalized-be on the look out for an email and hotel information posted to our Next Meeting page.

We look forward to seeing everyone in March!

Registration Prices

Student Member $75

Regular Member $125

($15 late fee after 2/8)

Prices include: Welcome reception (food and beverages) Thursday evening, breakfast and coffee breaks for all attendees Friday and Saturday, Friday lunch, Friday evening poster session reception, Friday dinner banquet, and a program book

"...resilience is the ability of an ecosystem to absorb a disturbance, but also to maintain the quality of its pre-disturbance structure and functions...The 'art' is in balancing the needs and resilience of communities with that of ecosystems to the benefit of both."

-Dr. Devon Eulie, UNCW

For more information, visit www.seers.org

Unsubscribe